2023 UNITAR International Fellowship Programme in Peacemaking and Preventive Diplomacy – 30th Anniversary

"Upon reflection of our engagement at the 30th Anniversary UNITAR Fellowship Programme, the meticulous organization and depth of the programme by UNITAR is commendable. Further amplifying its merit was the diversity of its participants - reputable individuals of high stature with a wealth of experience. This systematic exchange of lessons and strategies, enriched by the varied backgrounds, stands as a testament to its depth and relevance. As I integrate these learnings into my professional endeavors, I will ensure to relay the outcomes. I extend my formal gratitude to UNITAR and esteemed colleagues for the rigorous and invaluable impact of this Fellowship".

- 2023 Fellow, Mr Fabian Rafael Ybarra Fernandez, Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Paraguay

WHAT?

The United Nations Secretary-General has identified prevention as the top priority of the organization, calls for a return to the United Nations (UN) Charter and for the implementation of Article 33 on the peaceful resolution of disputes. Our "Fellowship Programme in Peacemaking and Preventive Diplomacy" was established in 1993 to strengthen the capacities of United Nations departmental and peace mission staff, regional organization representatives and diplomats from around the world in the prevention and peaceful resolution of conflict and in efforts to build a culture of peace.

Now in its 30th year, the Fellowship Programme has provided advanced training for 1.143 senior and mid-level officials through the conduct of 30 intensive international programmes. For the 2023 Programme, 46 senior and mid-level officials took part from UN Departments and peace missions around the world, from the African Union, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) and the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) and diplomats from every region. Women composed 54% of officials completing the intensive programme. Given the growing complexities and interlinked global challenges exacerbating conflict and the critical importance of understanding and addressing root causes to formulate mutually beneficial solutions for lasting peace, the programme continues to provide an invaluable opportunity to strengthen the capacities of those engaged in this most important work to build and sustain inclusive peace.

WHO?

The programme strengthens the capacities of female and male senior and mid-level UN departmental and peace mission staff, regional organization representatives and diplomats from around the world in conflict analysis, negotiation, mediation and reconciliation to contribute to lasting and inclusive peace.

The funding governments of Norway and Finland had two Fellows respectively take part in the Fellowship Programme building on their capacities and leadership in the peacemaking and conflict prevention fields.

UNITAR Francophone Regional Training Programme to Enhance Conflict Prevention and Peacemaking in Central Africa

"The toolbox, as well as the skills I developed thanks to the exercises and the good practices collected, will allow me to analyze more finely the causes of conflicts and to engage in more efficient negotiation processes focused on interests and problem-solving approaches. With the endorsement of UNITAR, I intend to share these tools and the lessons I have learned from this training with my colleagues and by working on a daily basis with our international, regional and national partners in the implementation of projects aimed at conflict prevention and peace-building in Central Africa: seminars, training, colloquia, advocacy, political missions".

- Participant - UNITAR 2023 Francophone Regional Training Programme for Central Africa

WHAT?

This second "Francophone Training Programme" was designed to build key capacities for peace in the region. The online sessions focused on the interest-based, problem-solving process of negotiation, which seeks to analyze and understand the underlying needs and concerns of parties, and to engage in creative problem-solving to achieve mutually beneficial solutions that can help build trust and a long-term cooperative relationship, better enabling them to work together in the future to prevent and resolve conflicts.

Senior female and male resource persons from the UN, the International Organization of the Francophonie (OIF), and from the region engaged with the participating officials on pressing peace and security challenges on the continent and Central African region. The participating officials were able to articulate the peace they wished to make and restore, learn and practice mutually beneficial negotiation processes. Officials exchanged their findings throughout the programme period, and will continue their peer-to-peer exchange in the coming years. The participants shared their experiences, lessons, and practice and formed a network of peacemakers which was one of the most important results of the training programme.

WHO?

43 mid and senior-level female and male officials from Offices of the President and Prime Minister, Ministries of Foreign Affairs, staff from the African Union, sub-regional organizations, from UN and AU peace missions from six countries - Burundi, Cameroon, the Central African Republic, Chad, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, and the Republic of Congo - and from civil society successfully completed the intensive sub-regional training programme. Women composed 54% of officials trained.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

Funding for this programme was provided by the people of Japan through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan. UNITAR and the participating officials are very grateful for this support which made it possible to carry out this highly requested French language programme.

We also enjoyed a close partnership with the United Nations Regional Office for Central Africa (UNOCA) and the International Organization of the Francophonie (OIF).

Pre-Deployment Training of Military Personnel Prior to Deployment to United Nations Peace Operations

WHAT?

The pre-deployment training of military personnel plays a pivotal role in preparing uniformed personnel for United Nations (UN) peace operations, addressing the crucial need to enhance performance and mandate implementation.

Our capacity-building approaches promote sustainable behaviour change and improve performance, contributing to enhancing peace operation effectiveness. By strengthening individual and unit capabilities, motivating personnel, and transforming professional environments, we align with the Action4Peacekeeping+ Initiative's priorities.

In 2023, key achievements included collaborations with the UN Military Performance Evaluation Team (MPET) – Office of Military Affairs and the UN Conduct and Discipline Service. The latter led to the development and delivery of customized reinforcement training for military Commanders on conduct, discipline, and the prevention of Sexual Exploitation and Abuse (SEA) in select countries.

These initiatives exemplify our dedication to enhancing uniformed personnel readiness, adherence to international standards, and overall UN peace operation success.

WHO?

This project is addressed to commissioned and non-commissioned officers from major Troop-Contributing Countries (TCCs).

2,002
Participants

Australia, Benin, Burkina Faso, Fiji, Ghana, Guinea Conakry, Italy, Ivory Coast, Kenya, Mali, Nepal, Rwanda, Sri Lanka, Tanzania, Togo, Turkey, Vietnam

WHAT?

The pre-deployment training of police personnel for UN peace operations is a vital initiative driven by the need to prepare police personnel effectively for their deployments, enhancing their performance and ensuring successful mandate execution in complex peacekeeping environments.

Our activities stand out by providing specialized training tailored to the unique demands of policing in peacekeeping missions, filling a critical need and making a significant difference in preparing police personnel for their roles.

In 2023, our commitment was marked by our continued support to the UN Police Training Architecture and the UN Police Division in various areas. This included developing online courses, offering methodological support for training materials, and active participation in the roll out of new training packages.

Additionally, we expanded our geographical reach to Southeast Asia, forming new partnerships with Vietnam, Nepal, and Sri Lanka, further strengthening our impact in the region, and diversified our services in support emerging Police Contributing Countries.

WHO?

This project is addressed to individual police officers and members of Formed Police Units (FPUs) from major Police-Contributing Countries (PCCs).

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The generous support of the German Federal Republic and Sweden has been instrumental in driving their successful implementation, providing crucial funding and resources to enhance the quality of police personnel pre-deployment training, ultimately bolstering the effectiveness of UN peace operations.

Learn more

WHAT?

While it constitutes a smaller component of our work, the pre-deployment training of Government Provided Personnel (GPPs) and corrections officers is an important initiative and holds significant potential for expansion beyond pre-deployment for UN peace operations.

This project distinguishes itself by filling a pivotal gap in ensuring the readiness and effectiveness of corrections officers, who are mandated to play a crucial role particularly in countries undergoing transitions.

In 2023, our highlights encompassed the continuation of our partnership with the Justice and Corrections Services of the UN Department of Peace Operations (UNDPO) for the implementation of a recruitment exercise aimed at increasing the number of female personnel deployed, emphasising our commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Furthermore, we strengthened partnerships with Rwanda Corrections Services, and collaborated with the United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUSCO) for GPP training. Discussions on an expanded partnership during the mission's transition process to provide support to national authorities are ongoing, reaffirming our dedication to advancing corrections services in peacekeeping contexts.

WHO?

This project is addressed to Government Provided Personnel and corrections officers.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

As of now, there is no dedicated donor for this project, and the activities are sustained through the residual fund of the Division. We are actively seeking support for these essential activities, with a particular focus on engaging the Group of Friends of Corrections to ensure the continued success and expansion of our initiatives.

Pre-Deployment Training of Medical and Paramedical Personnel Prior to Deployment to United Nations Peace Operations

WHAT?

The pre-deployment training of medical and paramedical personnel for UN peace operations is a critical initiative, which recognises their indispensable role in ensuring successful mandate implementation. These activities are imperative as they address the compelling need to prepare these personnel effectively for their deployments, where their contributions to the safety and well-being of personnel deployed are of paramount importance.

Our programmes equip medical and paramedical personnel with specialized training tailored to the unique demands of their roles in peacekeeping missions. This comprehensive training not only enhances their individual readiness but also contributes significantly to the overall effectiveness and security of UN peace operations.

In 2023, our highlights included our pioneering work in integrating mental health as a key dimension in ensuring the safety and security of deployed personnel. The adoption of resolution 2668 in December 2022 on mental health and psychosocial support (MHPSS) for United Nations peace operations underscored the importance of our efforts, reaffirming our commitment to improving the well-being and effectiveness of medical and paramedical personnel in peacekeeping missions.

WHO?

This project is addressed to medical and paramedical personnel.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The support from Canada plays a pivotal role in its successful implementation by providing essential funding and resources to equip medical and paramedical personnel with specialized training, enhancing their readiness to contribute significantly to the safety and well-being of personnel deployed in UN peace operations.

WHAT?

Started in 2021, our partnership with the African Union Office of the Special Envoy in Women, Peace and Security (AU-OSE-WPS) seeks to support the acceleration of the WPS Agenda on the African continent.

In 2023, continuous engagements with African Union (AU) Member States (MS), including through the conduct of the AU Peace and Security Council Open Session on the Women Peace and Security, a study visit to Rwanda on the use of the Continental Results Framework (CRF), the conduct of a field peace advocacy mission to the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), conduct of a training workshop with Regional Economic Committees (REC) and MS on accelerating the implementation of WPS in Addis Ababa and the convening of the fourth WPS Africa forum in Addis Ababa, have reinforced the commitment by Member States towards the effective use and implementation of the WPS Agenda.

As a next step in this partnership, UNITAR and AU OSE are planning to develop a dedicated WPS monitoring training programme using the CRF, to increase the effective utilization of the CRF in Member States as well as the digitalisation of the WPS reporting process.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The project was funded by the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and implemented jointly by UNITAR and the African Union Office of the Special Envoy in Women, Peace and Security.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

This initiative was generously supported by the German Federal Foreign Office.

WHAT?

Following Russia's invasion of Ukraine in 2022, active warfare has impacted all sectors of Ukrainian society, placing an unprecedented burden on civil servants. As such, in 2023, the Ukrainian Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MFA) and Diplomatic Academy of Ukraine, sought our assistance to enhance the capabilities of Ukrainian civil servants through opportunities for personal and professional development, with the overall aim to facilitate the effective use of UN instruments and mechanisms.

The collaboration focused on three key tracks: Women's Empowerment, through the delivery of a tailored edition of our Women's Leadership for Peace Programme; Skills Development, with diplomats engaging in our online and in-person courses; and Knowledge Development and Exchange, featuring immersion programmes in Geneva and The Hague facilitating exchanges on international system instruments and international justice.

The success of these initiatives underscores the importance of providing capacity-building support for Ukrainian diplomats in active conflict scenarios. We envision expanding this partnership, working closely with the Ukrainian MFA and government to broaden opportunities to better equip Ukrainian civil servants to navigate and engage with international mechanisms effectively.

E-Mobility for Kenya: Reducing Conflict in East Africa Through More Inclusive and Sustainable Job Creation

"I found a conflict after last week's training on peace, there was a minor crash between a rider and another motorist. I kept the dialogue going respectfully between the two people. Eventually, we found a solution and both parties went home happy".

- Participant of the E-Mobility Training

"I helped someone in my neighbourhood recover consciousness using the lessons we were taught on emergency response".

- Participant of the E-Mobility Training

WHAT?

Responding to the high unemployment rates, Kenyans increasingly turned to the boda-boda sector for self-employment. However, these entrepreneurs face predatory interest rates, diminishing profits due to surging fuel costs, and elevated accident risks. UNITAR and the Kenya Commercial Bank Foundation's (KCB F) "E-Mobility for Kenya" initiative addressed these issues with a six-week training programme held in Kenya from May to June 2023, focusing on entrepreneurship, environmental stewardship, road safety, and peacebuilding.

58 participants graduated and a finance facility was rolled out, enabling riders to acquire electric motorbikes.

Aligned with Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) 1, 7, 8, and 13, the project has been endorsed by the Kenyan government for its potential in reducing Greenhouse Gas (GHG) emissions. Additionally, the initiative garnered appreciation at the African Climate Summit Exhibition in Nairobi, attracting interest for replication in other East African countries. We seek continued partnerships and donor engagement to amplify the project's positive impact on employment, safety promotion, environmental sustainability, and peace in Kenya.

WHO?

Entrepreneurs in the boda-boda industry.

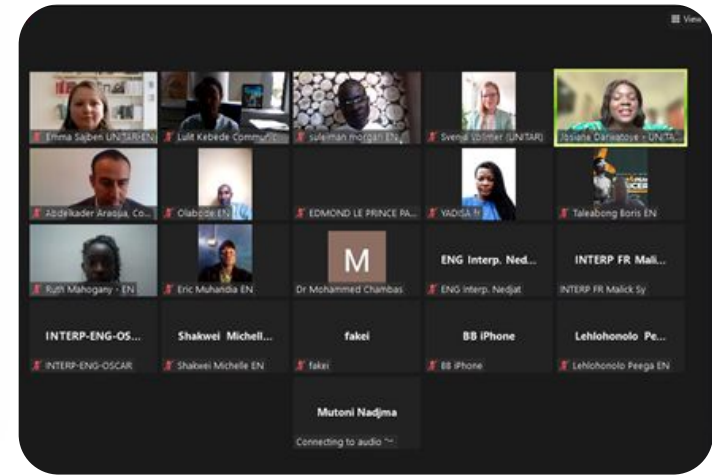

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

Through the grant to KCB Foundation, a training package was delivered over six weeks, and ten riders have already acquired electric motorbikes.

Youth and Women's Empowerment Leveraging Arts for Peace

"The 'Leveraging Arts for Peace' training should be the best thing that has happened to me this year. Apart from the knowledge I gathered, the training exposed me to a lot of mistakes and lapses I have had in my activism journey. Through the trainings, homework and group exercises, I can gladly say that I have gained so much clarity and experience firstly on how to improve the quality of my art and secondly how to effectively and sustainably channel my energy towards peace building".
- Taleabong Boris Alemnge (Penboy), Cameroon

WHAT?

We believe that arts ignite peace and that by raising their voices, artists can paint a brighter future with the power of their art. This is the vision behind the project "Leveraging Arts 4 Peace: Virtual training for Silencing the Guns on the African continent", a powerful collaboration between UNITAR and the African Union Commission's Silencing the Guns Unit.

As part of this project, we delivered a virtual training from 18 to 22 September 2023 to 16 African artists representing 11 countries. Participants were equipped with the tools and knowledge to harness the transformative power of art for peace, thereby filling the crucial gap for effective peace advocacy on the African continent amidst mounting instability and violence.

Partnership to achieve the project's full potential to silence the guns on the African continent is crucial. The project partners therefore continue to seek suitable funding opportunities and pathways for collaboration.

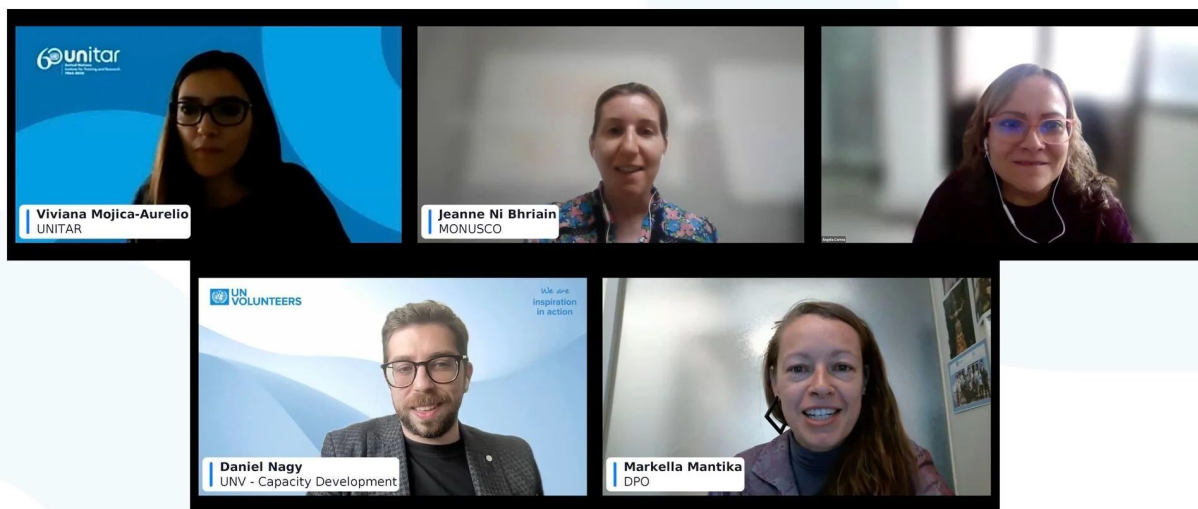

WHO?

16 African artists (multiple artistic fields) completed the training:
11 African nationalities were represented.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

This pilot phase of the initiative was developed and rolled out entirely by UNITAR in support of the Silencing the Guns Unit within the African Union.

WHAT?

The webinar organized by UN Volunteers and UNITAR addressed specifically UN Volunteers (UNVs) based in UN agencies and offices worldwide. The event was designed to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of the DDR (Disarmament, Demobilization, and Reintegration) process, its significance in peacebuilding, and the specific roles and expertise areas where UN Volunteers contribute.

The panellists, representing the Colombian Agency for Reincorporation and Normalization (ARN), the UN Department for Peace Operations, MONUSCO, and UNITAR, shared knowledge and first-hand experiences, as well as daily realities faced by UN personnel within the DDR sector. The objective was to bridge the gap between theory and practice.

The primary objective was to offer UN Volunteers worldwide a deeper appreciation of the challenges and successes in the field, allowing them to gain valuable insights into the practical aspects of the DDR process.

WHO?

The event targeted United Nations Volunteers across the world. Altogether 101 individual participants attended the session.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The event was organized in collaboration with UN Volunteers, and thanks to its broad reach, it was able to impact UNVs working in 32 UN agencies across 54 countries worldwide.

Youth and Women's Empowerment & Recovery and Resilience Towards Locally-Led Stabilization and Reconciliation in Libya

"The training has positively impacted our work beyond helping young people on topics such as peacebuilding and leadership. It strengthened our abilities to lead reconciliation processes in social and political frameworks, and we transferred this knowledge to fellow female and male participants".
- Abobaker Algomati, Trainer, Former staff of "Perpetual Peace"

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

We supported the operationalisation of the peace agenda of the Government of Japan for Libya. The project was implemented in strict coordination with the Embassy of Japan in Libya and the generous support of Japan was critical throughout all the project activities and in the training materials.

WHAT?

This project is designed to support international and national efforts of stabilization and reconciliation in Libya by empowering Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) to translate and concretise at community level the national efforts towards sustainable peace and reconciliation.

Particularly, the project focused on strengthening the capacities of local CSOs and local communities to take ownership of their leading role in the enhancement of conflict resolution, resilience, and reconciliation. While providing a specific focus on empowering youth, CSOs were trained on how to have a positive impact on the Libyan social fabric and the sense of belonging of communities within their territory.

The project came in response to the grievances caused by the civil war, the threat of recruitment by armed groups and increased instability in the region. By training Libyan CSOs on peacebuilding and reconciliation, civil society will then be empowered to prevent violence from spreading within their community.

WHO?

This project is aimed at Libyan CSOs that can directly support youth coming from the eastern, western and southern regions of the country in positively impacting reconciliation processes in the country.

The initial objective was to train 80 youth leaders and reach 200 community members but ended up training 116 youth leaders and directly reached 351 community members.

Long-Term Impact of the Project "Youth-Led Peace and Reconciliation in Colombia: A Transformational Approach"

WHAT?

This project effectively addressed challenges in marginalised Colombian communities, especially at-risk youth, grappling with the aftermath of armed conflict. Given the historical context, these communities often lacked vital tools for reconciliation, resilience, and conflict prevention. The project aimed to fill this gap by equipping them with the skills and resources needed to actively contribute to sustainable peace development.

Over the years, the project significantly impacted vulnerable communities, particularly at-risk youth. By empowering young individuals in marginalised areas, the project tools enhanced resilience and fostered conflict prevention capacities among youth and families.

After the project officially closed in 2020, Ciudad Don Bosco continued its efforts on the ground. In 2023, the organization adapted two project components, collaborating with municipal authorities in Medellín, Colombia, to implement capacity-building activities. This ongoing commitment highlights the sustained impact, particularly in supporting youth engagement in peace-related activities in the city.

WHO?

Youth in Colombia

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The project was supported by Germany and concluded in 2020. The lasting impact of the initiative is evident in the ability of the Civil Society Organizations to sustain and adapt the tools created by UNITAR to the peacebuilding needs of the local communities, utilizing its own resources. This has been ensuring a positive and enduring influence, particularly on the youth in Medellín.

Community Violence Reduction in Cameroon Training Course

WHAT?

The project is positioned within the UN support to the peace efforts in Cameroon, and specifically within the International Organization for Migration (IOM) and the UN Department of Peace Operations (DPO) support to the creation, coordination and implementation of a National Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Programme in the country. Building on previous initiatives, we have been asked by IOM and DPO to design and implement capacity-building initiatives aimed at strengthening the capacities of the National Committee for DDR (NCDDR) to increase their understanding of Community Violence Reduction within the national DDR process.

The face-to-face training aimed at enhancing the capacities of NCDDR members to plan, design and implement CVR by using a hands-on learning approach made at analysing CVR within the specific characteristics of the Cameroonian context, through interactive methodologies aimed at testing the knowledge acquired in a safe and controlled environment. The three and a half-day training course was delivered in Yaoundé, from 26 to 29 September 2023.

WHO?

The training course was addressed to representatives of regional offices of the NCDDR, relevant Ministries, and UN agencies. The training was attended by 29 participants.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The support of IOM was key in the initiative. Besides the financial contribution, it also supported the organization and logistics of the training. IOM together with DPO supported the conceptualisation and design of the training course as well as facilitating an open channel of communication with the NCDDR in Cameroon.

Effective Weapons and Ammunition Management in a Changing DDR Context

Kofi Annan International Peacekeeping Training Centre (KA IPTC) in Accra, Ghana

"The diversity created a dynamic environment, fostering exchange of real-life experiences and challenges. Upon reflection, the training with UNITAR has significantly influenced my approach to CVR projects, offering a fresh perspective that opens new possibilities for connecting WAM activities with DDR process and CVR programming. Because two DDR practitioners participated from MONUSCO in the UNITAR training, it sparked valuable discussions among the DDR team, paving the way to explore the field context and potential avenues for transitional WAM. This experience has proven instrumental in shaping my work and broadening the scope of strategic considerations within CVR project design".

- Anna Beck, Associate DDR Officer Disarmament Demobilization and Reintegration (DDR) Section Community Violence Reduction (CVR) Unit MONUSCO/GOMA

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

Along with the financial contribution of DPO, the project partners have joined efforts to design and implement the training programme since its creation. The partners, with the team of experts from the Ammunition Management Advisory Team (AMAT) and the Folke Bernadotte Academy (FBA), contribute with their technical expertise and with the logistical coordination with the hosting training institution, the Kofi Annan International Peacekeeping Training Centre (KA IPTC). We closely worked with DPO and UNODA for the methodological and content revision of the course for each iteration, including the adaptation of the course into a virtual format during the 2020 pandemic.

WHAT?

Since 2018, we support the UN Department of Peace Operations (DPO) and the UN Office for Disarmament Affairs (UNODA) in efforts to enhance weapons and ammunition management capacity in Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration (DDR) contexts and to strengthen the knowledge and skills to build capacities on how to safely and securely handle, store and dispose of DDR weapons and ammunition. The blended training course, at its fifth iteration, reunites practitioners from the DDR and WAM fields to share experience and build their capacities to ultimately design effective, tailored arms and ammunition management operations – in both traditional and ‘second generation’ DDR settings – which are guided by the most relevant, globally accepted standards : International Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Standards (IDDRS), Information Sharing and Analysis Centers (ISACS) and International Ammunition Technical Guidelines (IATG) and are consistent with international and regional commitments of host governments.

The training, composed of an online and face-to-face component, includes theoretical sessions, group exercises and scenario-based activities, designed through an approach highlighting experiential and collaborative learning. The training also includes practical demonstration conducted at the Ghana Military Academy and Training School.

WHO?

The course was targeted at DDR and Weapons and Ammunition Management (WAM) practitioners from UN Missions, and staff personnel of arms control institutions.

Strengthening Operational Linkages Between Early Warning and Conflict Response at Regional and National Levels Using a Human Rights Prevention-Focused Approach

WHAT?

Since 2020, we have been a key partner in an innovative initiative funded by the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO) that aims to strengthen conflict prevention and response mechanisms across the African continent. The initiative, seeing the partnership of UNITAR, African Union, World Bank and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), places a strategic emphasis on supporting the uptake of early warning and action pathway into the AU giving a key role to human rights.

In the current phase, which started in 2023, we are supporting the efforts of different stakeholders in addressing the root causes of conflict through a transversal human rights approach that allows to enhance the interrelation between prevention and response. At the end of 2023, we, together with the partners of the initiative, participated in a joint meeting to take stock of the lessons learned of the previous phases of the project and to discuss the future steps. We will closely work with the partners to complete the capacity-building deliverables of the project in 2024.

WHO?

Through the implementation of the activities, we increased the participation of regional and local actors (AU Member States, AU Regional Economic Commissions officials, UN and World Bank practitioners, civil society organizations and national human rights institutions) to engage with relevant early warning systems and link them to human rights-based approaches.

Harnessing Mental Health Psychosocial Support (MHPSS) for Trust-Building, Peace and Development

Geneva, Switzerland

WHAT?

The global rise in violent conflicts and instability has created conditions of extreme adversity that undermine the achievement of the SDGs and leave hundreds of millions of people struggling with the short- and long-term effects of mass violence, injustice, displacement and distress. Aligned with UNSCR 2668 and UN General Assembly Resolution 77/300, we recognise that Mental Health and Psychosocial Support (MHPSS) is a cornerstone of individual and community resilience, reconciliation, and trust-building.

To advance this agenda, we joined forces with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and Interpeace for a 90-minute policy briefing at the Geneva Peace Week 2023, presenting practice-based insights and recommendations on why and how to ensure effective integration of MHPSS into peacebuilding methodologies and interventions. Expert panellists shared examples of innovative strategies and ethical reflections on context- and culture-specific initiatives in Rwanda, Burundi, Colombia, Pakistan, Jordan, and Syria that coalesce MHPSS with peacebuilding measures and livelihoods to help communities and individuals to be resilient, end cycles of violence, and foster sustainable peacebuilding and development.

WHO?

The event was attended by over 100 participants, both onsite and online, representing major policy, development cooperation, research and grassroots organizations.

"As much as peace nurtures psychological and community well-being, so fortifying a community's psychosocial health amplifies its resilience to adversities. MHPSS should not be a trend, it should be an integrated practice".

"This Master's programme has exposed me to not only the literature and conceptual side of humanitarian action and peacebuilding, but also the real-world and ground perspectives provided by my colleagues in the same course. It taught me the importance of the participatory approach to doing things – how co-creating solutions with the various stakeholders can be more sustainable than having a top-down approach to doing things. Such concepts, perspectives and case studies have helped me craft the general direction to what I want to achieve through my research, and how I want to carry it out. [...] Coming from a place where there is little exposure to violent conflicts, humanitarian action or peacebuilding-related activities, I felt that my perspective has been enlarged through each interaction with fellow colleagues, module leaders/facilitators, and industry experts in the various modules".

- Maggie Chin, NGO/humanitarian sector, Singapore

Roadmaps for Energy Access in Displacement Settings (READS)

"The READS workshop organized by UNITAR was very impressive for the combination of people at the workshop, such as international organization representatives, international, and government stakeholders that are working on energy, refugee representatives, private sector, and Non-Governmental Organizations in Ethiopia. The combination of the participants and knowledge brought a lot of information as inputs for the READS reports. The reports will help us to guide us in the future initiatives for the humanitarian energy sector in Ethiopia".
- Dr Almaz Tadesse, Mercy Corps Ethiopia

WHAT?

The project aims to develop a series of 'roadmap reports' for ten refugee-hosting nations to take stock of the current state of energy access in displacement settings, thereby addressing a gap of knowledge on the topic. In 2023, the READS project conducted five in-person workshops in Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda, Lebanon, and Ethiopia with diverse stakeholders to gain a deeper understanding of current energy challenges and solutions in displacement settings.

The first three roadmap reports for Kenya, Rwanda and Uganda were published in the second half of 2023. These reports present the status of sustainable energy access for refugee and host community households, businesses, and community facilities in displacement settings in the respective countries. By highlighting specific project opportunities and providing an overview of the stakeholders working towards SDG 7 in displacement settings, the READS project aims to raise awareness of this topic and mobilise additional financing to support increased access to sustainable energy for displaced people and host communities.

WHO?

The five workshops in Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda, Lebanon and Ethiopia targeted a variety of stakeholders working on the topic of energy access in displacement settings in these countries. The total of participants was around 175 participants, with community representation of the East Africa workshops being around 20-25%.

Advisory Board Side Event Can Peace Ever Return to the Sahel?

Watch the discussion here!

"The crisis feeds itself on the weakness of governments. We need to invest in humanitarian assistance, think long-term and anchor discussions between parties and the government (elected or not)".

- Ahmedou Ould-Abdallah, President of the Centre4S and former United Nations Special Envoy in Sudan, Special Representative of the Secretary-General in Burundi and Somalia, and Head of the United Nations Office for West Africa and the Sahel (UNOWAS)

WHAT?

After more than ten years of conflict and countering terrorism, the situation in the Sahel region remains unstable, putting thousands of civilians at risk, causing massive suffering, and forcing millions of people to flee and leave their homes. In the region, the humanitarian situation is extremely concerning, and security challenges reach unprecedented levels. At the root of this situation, multidimensional challenges combine in a complex interaction which increases the instability in the Sahel but the areas for improvement are numerous in a region full of opportunities.

In the framework of the fourth Division for Peace Advisory Board meeting, we organized a discussion on the conditions for a return of peace in the Sahel inviting prestigious panellists to identify the causes of instability in the region and explore the many learning possibilities to help build resilience and foster peace.

The complementary nature of the interactions between the speakers who are renown experts in their fields allowed to deliberate on solutions and policies to support and improve prosperity, peace and security in the region. The event successfully raised awareness on the needs to cater for a sustainable return of peace in the Sahel.

The event was closed with an interview and a performance of the Nigerian band Etran de L'Aïr.

Pre-Deployment Training and Advisory Institutional Capacity-Building

WHAT?

Institutional capacity-building activities are essential to address the critical need for strengthening local and national institutions. As one of our core principles, long-term sustainability is prioritised through meaningful local participation and ownership. In challenging times, having a robust network of dedicated local partners and staying connected to the communities we serve is crucial for our success. Partnerships are integral to achieving lasting growth, and our team is committed to reinforcing local and national institutions, ensuring sustained impact beyond project lifecycles.

This project makes a significant difference by building the capacity of local actors and fostering a sense of ownership, enabling them to continue positively impacting their communities long after our projects conclude.

In 2023, highlights included the continued support for training institutions across Africa, and in particular for the École de Maintien de la Paix Alyoune Blondin Bays (EMPABB), and the Tanzania Peacekeeping Training Centre (TPTC), further strengthening our commitment to capacity-building in partnership with local actors for enduring and sustainable results.

WHO?

The activities are addressed to civilian, military and police personnel.

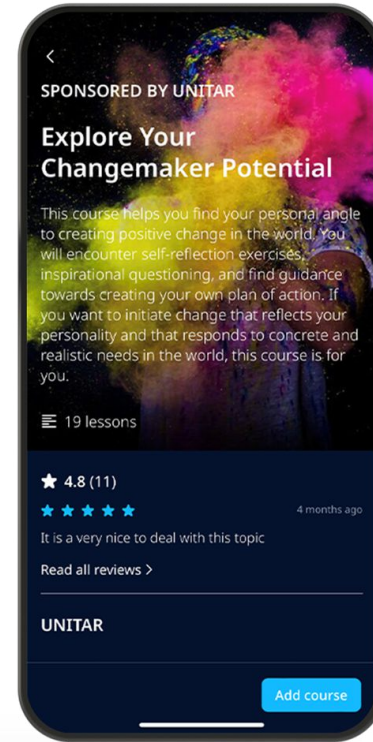

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

Germany plays a vital role in its implementation by providing essential financial support and resources, enabling us to reinforce local and national institutions and ensure the long-term sustainability of capacity-building initiatives, fostering positive impacts in communities well beyond the project's conclusion.

Sowing Seeds for More Accessible Changemaking

WHAT?

We have redoubled efforts of leaving no one behind by bringing together our mandate as a UN training institute and years of leading within innovative instructional design and methodologies.

In a digital landscape where data costs, technical and language requirements, as well as non-intuitively designed platforms pose hurdles to making learning relevant to diverse needs, the agency-based empowerment tool Explore Your Changemaker Potential (available in all six official UN languages and Portuguese, on the learning platform EdApp) embodies this intention of breaking down barriers to accessibility.

This tool recognises that capacity-building goes beyond traditional training settings, and beyond skills-building, by showing that it is possible to by small means use pre-existing motivations, ideals, and inner capacities to meaningfully contribute to the world's pressing needs. It, among many other offers, helps young people achieve their potential for changemaking and to contribute directly to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.

We appreciate and encourage such initiatives. Thank you and keep up with these types of initiatives".

- Participant in the programme

WHAT?

Recognising the crucial contributions of civil society actors, including young people and women, in paving the way towards stabilization and peacebuilding in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), we lent our support to the Social Cohesion Consortium, an inclusive CSO partnership that helps prevent and address conflict cycles in Eastern DRC.

The joint programming with the Social Cohesion Consortium (Norwegian Refugee Council, Search for Common Ground, International Alert, and Justice Plus) focused on the provision of participatory methodologies that enable and advance capacities for community-led impact assessment of peacebuilding efforts as well as the formulation of recommendations for future programming.

Implementing a UNITAR-designed methodology, followed by a space for dialogue and project capitalisation, the collaboration hence helped give voice to the lived experiences of project participants. Core recommendations include further support to non-traditional peace actors, with a specific focus on women and youth, and the consolidation of sustainable structures for peace that result from increased collaboration between various actors across the region from different sectors of society.

Strengthening the Capacity of the Judicial System and Promoting the Rule of Law in Mali

Watch the closing ceremony here!

"An innovative training course and the first of its kind. Over fifty notaries and clerks, in addition to three trainers, have benefitted from the very important module on the fight against money laundering and the financing of terrorism, to which notaries are subject, as well as ethics and professional conduct. The beneficiaries have been coming back to the Order's office ever since to express their complete satisfaction with both the content of the training and, above all, its form. The UNITAR method, with its experiential approach, works wonders, combining learning with fun, practicality and playfulness, and getting as close as possible to real-life situations".

- Maître Yacouba Massaman KEITA, President of the Order of the Notaries

WHAT?

In Mali, we organized from July 2021 to July 2023 a colloquium, training courses and study tours to enhance the capacities of judges, prosecutors, law enforcement officers, lawyers, notaries, court commissioners, court clerks and civil society actors. The project also strengthened the ability of the Malian judicial training institute in offering its services at the highest level and supported efforts to reform, modernise and digitalize the judicial system.

A well-functioning justice system promotes the rule of law, justice and democracy, and fosters the population's trust in law enforcement and judicial authorities. Such justice system requires that its actors have the necessary knowledge to perform their function in a professional manner. Internal processes should enable effective handling of cases in line with laws and procedures.

The project translated this idea into a variety of targeted training activities to enhance Mali's justice system and to help achieving SDG 16 for Peace, Justice and Strong institutions. Its implementation was characterised by the great interest and motivation of all participants to further develop their country in terms of rule of law, democracy and justice, and to take further steps towards legal reform.

WHO?

In 2023, 282 representatives from the justice system and from civil society participated in seven training courses on criminal procedure, ethics and deontology, combatting money laundering, and electoral law.

Throughout the project implementation, 1645 persons participated in the various training courses, around 30 legal experts (29 male, one female) were trained as trainers, and 22 representatives from the Malian justice system took part in the study tours to Rwanda and Senegal.

Rule of Law Support to Capacity-Building in the Field of Port Safety, Security and Protection of the Marine Environment in West and Central Africa – “Safe Port Project”

WHAT?

2023 was marked by the launch of the “Safe Port Project”. This project seeks to strengthen the capacities of institutions and stakeholders responsible to ensure security and safety in the maritime and port sector.

Our implementing partner is the Regional Academy of Marine Sciences and Techniques - Interregional Maritime Safety Institute (ARSTM – ISMI), located in Abidjan.

The results achieved within less than six months reflect the great interest attached to the provision of training in this area and the professionalism of ISMI: nine courses on various topics were attended by almost 200 participants working in the maritime and port sector. Participants came from Angola, Benin, Cape Verde, Côte d'Ivoire, Gabon, Gambia, Guinea Conakry, Liberia, Mauritania, Mozambique, Senegal, and Sierra Leone. They enhanced knowledge and skills in addressing port and maritime security and safety issues, controlling containers and vessels, managing dangerous goods and cargoes, examining a maritime crime scene, detecting cybercrime and fighting maritime pollution.

WHO?

This project’s training activities are directed at port security chiefs, port officers, law enforcement officers, military personnel and other officials, i.e. from ministries for maritime affairs, environmental protection agencies, navy, police and gendarmerie, customs as well as actors in the private maritime sector.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The financial support from the Federal Foreign Office of Germany to the Safe Port Project has helped to improve considerably the knowledge and skills of those working in the maritime and port sector, though they were not the only ones to benefit from this project: training in the prevention of maritime pollution or in the secure handling of dangerous cargoes ultimately benefits the entire population of affected countries.

Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire

WHAT?

We seek to reinforce institutions and networks to sustain peace and security efforts while helping to achieve the SDGs, in particular SDG 16 for Peace, Justice and Strong institutions.

To this end, we realised a project in partnership with the Académie Internationale de Lutte contre le Terrorisme (AILCT) based in Côte d'Ivoire and the Directorate for Cooperation of Security and Defence (DCSD) of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The AILCT supports African countries in building their capacities and in enhancing inter-ministerial coordination and cooperation to counter terrorism. The DCSD assumes a leadership and coordinating role for support directed to the AILCT and its activities.

The fight against terrorism is an important undertaking to achieve SDG 16 which is devoted to the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, the provision of access to justice for all and to the establishment of effective, accountable, and inclusive institutions.

WHO?

The project is directed at counter-terrorism practitioners from West Africa and Gulf of Guinea and the AILCT.

Training participants came from Benin, Cameroon, Chad, Congo-Brazzaville, Gabon, Guinea Conakry and Ivory Coast, Mauretania, Rwanda, Togo, Tunisia.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

The project funding was secured by the Federal Foreign Office of Germany to organize training courses in different areas of counter-terrorism and to improve the academy's infrastructure.

Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire

WHAT?

Being committed to reinforcing national institutions to ensure impact and sustainability of training results, we launched in November 2023 another project supporting the Académie Internationale de Lutte contre le Terrorisme (AILCT) in Côte d'Ivoire.

The project, funded by the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation focuses on an important aspect in counter-terrorism which is the assistance to victims of terrorism.

Tailored training courses at the AILCT target counter-terrorism practitioners from various African countries, particularly from West Africa and the Gulf of Guinea. The aim is to ensure that police officers, magistrates and other stakeholders have the required knowledge, skills and abilities to plan, prepare and handle the provision of different forms of assistance to victims of terrorism in their country.

By bringing together participants from various African countries, the project will also contribute to enhancing cooperation and exchange of information at the regional level.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

We welcome the donation from the Italian Government for a project that underscores the importance of providing support and assistance to victims of terrorism while promoting, respecting and protecting their rights. The project is in line with the UN Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy calling for more efforts in this regard. It also reflects the importance of cooperation at national, regional and international levels in the fight against terrorism.

The project is implemented in partnership with the Directorate for Cooperation of Security and Defence of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which is the main supporter of the AILCT.

WHAT?

The "Towards More Representative Security and Defence Forces" initiative is a cross-cutting dimension of our work and it is imperative to address the critical need for achieving gender equality within the security and defense forces and in UN peace operations. We are committed to fostering a more inclusive environment at all levels, ensuring equal representation, empowering marginalised groups, and integrating gender perspectives. This approach enables security institutions to respond effectively to the complexity of contemporary security challenges and contribute to lasting peace and stability worldwide.

This project makes a profound difference by adopting a comprehensive strategy to rectify the underrepresentation of women and address inequalities within security and defense forces, including through the dedicated training programmes.

In 2023, our highlights encompassed the development and delivery specialized training programmes for women officers, reflecting our commitment to supporting Member States, institutions, and organizations in creating gender-responsive and inclusive environments, while also tackling obstacles to gender equality, fostering women's leadership, empowering marginalised groups, and engaging male allies in security institutions and peacekeeping missions.

WHO?

The activities are addressed to women officers from security and defence forces.

OUR DONORS AND PARTNERS

As of now, there is no dedicated donor for this project, and the activities are sustained through the residual fund of the Division. We are actively seeking support for these essential activities.

Transforming Humanitarian Energy Access (THEA)

WHAT?

The Transforming Humanitarian Energy Access (THEA) project provides inclusionary analysis and evidence on the energy needs of all displaced people, specifically by delivering high-quality research and knowledge to support policy and decision-making on humanitarian energy investments and enabling systematic change within the UN system and humanitarian partners.

The Climate Classroom at COP 28 on Inclusive Humanitarian Energy organized in collaboration with our Green Development and Climate Change programme introduced participants to the energy challenges faced by forcibly displaced persons in displacement settings. It highlighted the importance of inclusion in humanitarian energy planning, implementation, and evaluation.

In addition, the THEA project hosted two in-person events at COP 28 with the objective to stimulate the discourse of the positionality of the refugees in responding the energy and climate crises in their context. The structure of these events included panel discussions and presentations, structures that allowed us to engage different actors including humanitarian actors, government officials, NGOs and youths.

WHO?

The THEA Project workshop in London helped to facilitate the establishment of a collaborative approach among project partners and the formulation of a supportive mechanism.

The THEA team in collaboration with UNFCCC hosted an online classroom event at COP 28 to share knowledge about the energy need in displacement settings. The event brought together 300 people.

1.1 METHODOLOGICAL SUPPORT

As a centralised cross-cutting team within the Division for Peace, Learning Solutions supports over 50 projects each year in the areas of eLearning, face-to-face and digital solutions.

Quality Assurance and Quality Enhancement of our training projects are parts of our core mandate and this drive for quality permeates the culture of the Division’s work. At the same time, we recognise that quality assurance is not just about ‘ticking a box’, but is about constantly striving for excellence, enhancing quality as much as possible through creating a culture where quality is valued as a top priority by all stakeholders involved.

The following core methodological principles guide the Division’s approach to designing high quality learning solutions for our participants and target audiences.

As the largest methodological team within UNITAR, Learning Solutions has been an instrumental part of the success and growth of the Division for Peace in recent years, evidence of the importance that the Division places on quality and innovation.

In 2023, Learning Solutions has taken a significant step to generate income through service delivery to external audiences, in addition to supporting internal projects.

2.1 LAUNCH OF THE TRAINING OF TRAINERS WEBSITE

Leveraging our many years of Training of Trainers (TOT) expertise, the launch of a dedicated Training of Trainers website offers a platform for the effective promotion and delivery of TOT-related products and services for external audiences, offering another avenue to generate new funding opportunities for the Division going forwards.

2.2 eLEARNING TRAINING OF TRAINERS

"This is one of the best courses I have ever taken. The tools and resources have helped our teams create engaging and transformational learning environments. This course was fabulous integrating the SDGs and the different perspectives. It has truly transformed how I write curriculum, deliver workshops and peace education initiatives, and even my keynote addresses". - Tamara Larson

This self-paced eLearning course equips individuals and institutions with the tools and knowledge necessary to create and implement training events. To spare institutions the burden of having to reinvent the wheel on good TOT practices, this course offers cutting-edge insights and skills which can be integrated into existing training programmes within and outside of the UN.

The launch of this course positions the Division to be a leader in the field of training by offering a high-quality TOT course at an affordable rate, through group discounts and individual scholarships. It is also a flagship course of UNITAR in terms of its exemplary application of accessibility and disability inclusion principles in its design.

2.4 EXPANSION OF THE TRAINING OF TRAINERS PORTFOLIO

Advancing the Training of Trainers (ToT) portfolio each year is a key priority for the Learning Solutions team, due to its enormous potential to increase and multiply the impact, reach and sustainability of trainings by the Division. This past year has shown significant expansion of the ToT portfolio to offer comprehensive and various formats.

Learning Solutions supports the Division for Peace to align and implement the vision laid out by the UN Secretary General's 2023 policy brief on advancing 'UN 2.0'. This powerful vision aims to promote a forward-thinking culture and cutting-edge skills throughout the United Nations system to increase its impact towards achieving the SDGs. UN 2.0 calls on every UN institution to evolve towards more agile, diverse, responsive, and impactful ways of working.

THE "QUINTET OF CHANGE"

Central to achieving the vision of UN 2.0 is a quintet of modern skills that have tremendous potential to enhance the work of United Nations entities in support of Member States. Learning Solutions supports the Division for Peace alignment with the UN 2.0 quintet of change in the following ways:

Behavioural Science

Behavioural science is embedded within our methodological approach, standards and learning tools. Training is essentially a vehicle for behaviour change in service of the Sustainable Development Goals, and we ensure behavioural sciences is mainstreamed throughout our design processes.

Data

Data is key to understanding the needs of our target audiences and to ensure that projects and programmes are improving over the long-term. We use data to analyse needs, contexts, user experiences to ensure training solutions are effective and targeted.

Digital

Over recent years, the digital solutions portfolio of the Division has expanded beyond eLearning to include mobile applications, virtual reality, online communities of practice, gamification and digital learning tools. Furthermore, we integrate technologies such as artificial intelligence within our design and development processes to increase the quality and efficiency of our course production.

Strategic Foresight

We are forward-looking and strategic with the structures and processes we embed within the Division and we ensure the latest trends in the fields of learning, training and digital solutions. We take a systems thinking perspective when designing solutions by exploring problems, root causes and potential leverage points to ensure our interventions are targeted, systematic and effective.

Innovation

As an innovation hub within the Division, we explore and critically assess the latest methodologies and learning technologies to integrate into the design and implementation of projects. We also engage regularly with other innovation colleagues from the UN Innovation Network. The Learning Solutions section will continue to work towards the vision of UN 2.0 and support the Division for Peace in being a forward-thinking leader within the UN system towards the achievement of the 2030 Agenda
