

E-LEARNING COURSE

ANTICORRUPTION AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Doha-Geneva, 12 April 2021

On the occasion of the 2nd iteration of the e-learning course on “Anticorruption and Sustainable Development: Building Inclusive and Transparent Societies for All”, the Rule of Law and Anticorruption Center (ROLACC) and the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR) would like to express their warm appreciation to all those participants who were part of it from 24 February to 07 April 2021.

Over 120 persons from all regions with different backgrounds earned certificates of participation and completion. In total, from the 1st and 2nd iterations of this course, around 220 persons have managed to receive these certificates. Through the registration process, 882 persons have acceded to this e-learning tool.

According to the feedback received, this tool has helped participants to strengthen the competences required for overcoming some of the challenges to combat corruption. In addition to learning its causes and consequences for sustainable development, participants understood better the benefits of its prevention for the enhancement of the rule of law, among other aspects.

The motivation to develop this tool was grounded in the fact that corruption hinders sustainable development in all countries, regardless of their stage of development. Mainstreaming knowledge about this problem pursues the transformation of discriminatory social institutions, laws, cultural norms, and community practices, such as those limiting access to property rights or restricting their access to public space.

In order to tackle its root causes and consequences as well as to find solutions for prevention, accountability and redress, the impact of mainstreaming knowledge is a powerful resource towards transforming the lives of individuals and societies as a whole.

Therefore, the creation of spaces as this e-learning course represents an opportunity to raise awareness, enhance capabilities, and share good practices towards a culture of learning.

As a contribution to this endeavor, the partners involved have brought together their expertise and practical knowledge to collaboratively developed this course.

It is based on UNITAR’s sound adult learning pedagogical principles and follows the UN Disability-Inclusive approach, which recognizes that combating corruption requires improving accessibility services, information, and participation of persons with disabilities. Hence, this tool includes sign language video and narrative audio.

ROLACC and UNITAR wish you enjoyable learning experiences in the upcoming iterations of this e-learning course, to be announced soon at UNITAR’s official webpage. <https://www.unitar.org/>

UNITAR and ROLACC wish you all enjoyable learning experiences for 2021!
