WHY UNDERTAKE MASTER'S STUDY

A Master's degree is a valuable qualification that provides multiple benefits. Participants who choose to pursue the Master in International Affairs and Diplomacy may seek to:

1 Complement and enhance their knowledge and skills in the area of international relations.

2 Improve their performance, through the acquisition of cutting-edge insights in international affairs and diplomatic practice.

3 Advance their career, through an internationally recognized executive degree.

4 Enlarge their network, by accessing an international community of professionals, world-leading experts and academics.

OBJECTIVES

The Master in International Affairs and Diplomacy will allow professionals and students to upgrade their studies and training with a formally recognized degree by combining the best of university education and UN executive training. At the end of the Master's Degree, participants will be able to:

- ▲ Develop a critical understanding of key issues and concepts in world affairs
- ▲ Demonstrate a comprehensive, substantive and practical knowledge of international relations and diplomacy
- ▲ Develop analytical skills and critical thinking
- ▲ Improve research and drafting skills
- ▲ Perform in both bilateral and multilateral working environments with increased confidence

The Master in International Affairs and Diplomacy is a UOC-Certified Master's Degree (awarded according to the rules and regulations set by the Spanish education system). Given its specificity, it does not give general access to Doctoral studies (Ph.D. and similar). Validation of credits for access to such programs can be requested from competent institutions. PRE

DESCRIPTION OF UNITAR COURSES

INTRODUCTION TO THE UN SYSTEM

This course aims to provide an overview of the United Nations as well as a historical, political, and analytical framework to broaden your understanding of the UN system's structure and challenges and for liaising more effectively with UN representatives and staff.

CONFLICT RESOLUTION AND CRISIS MANAGEMENT

The course critically analyzes current events, major problems, processes and trends in international and regional conflicts. It also examines the prospect for negotiation among states as well as international and regional organizations to solve international crises.

INTERNATIONAL DIPLOMACY - THEORY AND PRACTICE

The course helps students understand the theory and practice of diplomacy and discuss the contemporary challenges.

OVERCOMING NEGOTIATION DEADLOCKS

This course aims to give students practical skills to enhance individual and collective negotiation capacity and lead through deadlock situations.

PUBLIC DIPLOMACY IN A MULTIPOLAR WORLD

This course aims to help participants understand what public diplomacy is, how its practice has evolved over time and how the current challenges are being addressed. The crucial project steps of campaigns, media relations and other public diplomacy tools are analyzed, discussed and summarized in a very practice oriented manner.

DESCRIPTION OF UOC COURSES

INTERNATIONAL LAW AND INSTITUTIONS

This course provides a deeper understanding of legal principles, rules and practices that have become the basic instrument for states in solving common problems and expressing common values. The course focuses on the specific nature of international law, as well as the historical, sociological and political context in which it has developed. It also introduces the major related theoretical approaches.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS SYSTEM AND THEORIES

This course provides an overview of the field of international relations covering the definition, challenges and the key actors. The course also addresses the basic international relations theories including but not limited to realism, liberalism, constructivism, marxism, and rational decision-making.

INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

This course focuses on a wide spectrum of issues such as global trade, production and global finance based on empirical and critical analysis.

EUROPEAN UNION IN WORLD POLITICS

This course looks into the nature, goals, members, institutions and law of the European Union. This module also develops a critical analysis of the relationship between the European Union and emerging world powers.

LATIN AMERICA IN WORLD POLITICS

This module explores and analyzes the history, economics and politics in Latin America.

EAST ASIA IN WORLD POLITICS

With four great powers, three nuclear weapons states and two of the world's largest economies, East Asia is one of the most dynamic regions in world politics. This course introduces and critically explores the past and the future of East Asia.

AFRICA IN WORLD POLITICS

The course examines the role of Africa in the global order. During this course, questions such as demographic transition, inequality gaps, agricultural transformation, political fragility, regional cooperation and adaptation to climate change are addressed.

MIDDLE EAST IN WORLD POLITICS

The course examines political patterns in specific countries of the Middle East from a historical and theoretical point of view as well as the impact of the EU and the US foreign policy in the region.

RESEARCH METHODS COURSE

This course provides students with the basic tools to develop in-depth research skills.

MASTER THESIS

Participant will be supervised on an individual basis during the study and research of the topic in depth in relation to international affairs and diplomacy. The Master thesis should account for approximately 12,000 – 15,000 words.

INTERNSHIP (OPTIONAL)

FIELD VISIT TO GENEVA, DIPLOMACY HUB

On the shores of the Lac Léman, Geneva is a Swiss city of 192,000 inhabitants, which has been hosting intergovernmental organisations since the early 20th century. International conferences take place in the United Nations Office at Geneva (UNOG), in the five United Nations specialized agencies which have their headquarters in the city, in the Geneva headquarters or offices of United Nations bodies, commissions, programmes and in other United Nations or non-UN entities.

Students will have the opportunity to immerse themselves in the very heart of diplomacy. This optional field trip of a duration of 5 days can become an unforgettable lifetime experience for students who wish to gain expertise as well as skills in the domain of multilateral diplomacy.

Students will also have the opportunity to visit different international organizations, the Palais des Nations (United Nations Office at Geneva), and participate in face-to-face training sessions at UNITAR headquarters delivered by practitioners, senior diplomats and members of academia.

They will also have the chance to network with other diplomats, personnel of permanent missions accredited to the UN, civil servants of international organizations and civil society representatives.

ADMISSION PROCESS

The Master in International Affairs and Diplomacy and its related qualifications are aimed at diplomats as well as staff of governmental and non-governmental organizations. Additionally, the Master's Degree and related qualifications are open to graduate students*, young researchers and other academics interested in gaining a thorough understanding of diplomacy and international relations and acquiring soft skills to thrive in their careers.

The objective of the admission process is to select students with great potential and who can make a significant contribution to the learning experience. We seek candidates who are dynamic, motivated, creative, and who have not only an excellent academic background and/or professional experience, but also have interpersonal skills enabling the participants to make the most out of this program.
